

Language Generative Concerns

Introduction

<1 min

Attackers have been targeting the weakest link of all systems for ages: the people. While firewalls can be updated, patches applied, and systems locked down, users remain an ever-vulnerable component. Despite continuous training and awareness programs, end users continue to fall victim to phishing attacks.

Now, with the ease of use and widely available generative AIs, developing phishing campaigns has never been easier for an attacker.

Image by Epic Top 10 Site

